GERMAN Food

THE "KRAUTS" ARE REINVENTING THEMSELVES - BUT NEVERTHELESS STICK TO THEIR ROOTS.

TODAY'S CULINARY GERMANY IS A POSTMODERN MOSAIC.

GERMANY'S CUISINE IS BACK TO HEARTY

The cliché demands: German cuisine is associated to cabbage, dumplings, and hearty meat dishes. But, of course, also Germans have undergone a certain development since the 1950s: culinary traditions from many countries in the world have influenced the German way of cooking. Gourmet cuisine is high on the list of priorities, and trends such as Slow Food and reduced meat consumption have become firmly established. With new developments such as food trucks, molecular gastronomy, or functional food, Germany proves its innovation. So German chefs currently love to reinterpret old classics and regional specialities. Back to the roots!

CONTEMPORARY CUISINE MEANS GIVING DINERS THE CHOICE, ESPECIALLY BY OFFERING VEGAN AND VEGETARIAN OPTIONS.

GREEN IS MAINSTREAM

There are all sorts of reasons why people choose vegan or vegetarian food - from health and animal welfare to cultural factors, environmental considerations or just because they fancy a change. One thing is for sure, though: the global plant-based trend is still going strong. Almost one in four residents in European countries already lives flexitarian. This makes it even more important to offer a high-quality, varied range of veggie food. Make sure your vegan and vegetarian options meet the same standard as your meat dishes and are an attractive alternative - for all your customers.

FROM HEALTHY VEGAN VEGETABLE SNACKS AND MOREISH VEGETARIAN SNACKS TO QUALITY MEAT AND PLANT-BASED PROTEIN, WE OFFER A FLEXIBLE RANGE FOR YOU AND YOUR CUSTOMERS.

ANGUS BEEF – QUALITY BY NATURE

Black and red Angus are calm and good-natured cattle. Their name is taken from a Scottish region, but they are also well-known in Ireland: the animals graze for up to 300 days a year in the mild climate of this green island. This makes the fine-fibred meat of the vital, sustainably farmed cattle remarkably tender, juicy and flavoursome. Perfect for our naturally tender Homestyle Angus Burger patties.

Homestyle Angus Burger

Handmade style meets class: The handmade appearance, the extra tender bite, and the premium, certified ANGUS beef make this burger a threefold culinary event!

- Looks like homemade
- 100 % Angus beef from Ireland
- Grainy, tender, and juicy

SIMMENTAL BEEF – ENJOY A DELICIOUS MEAT PRODUCT

Sunny hills and sweet smelling flower meadows - this is the home of the Simmental cattle. It spends most of the year outside in the Austrian foothills of the alps, grazing on lush meadows. Both the great variety of what it feeds on as well as the continuous exercise are responsible for that very special nutty and aromatic flavour and the high quality of its meat. A true culinary delight! Even gourmet chefs value the juicy meat and its excellent marbling.

Homestyle Simmental Burger

Craftsmanship meets gourmet: The flavoursome beef of the Simmental cattle now in well-known and distinctive homestyle appearance. With premium Austrian beef for real beef indulgence.

- Looks like homemade
- 100 % Simmental beef from Austria
- Grainy, tender, and juicy
